

FACTOR'S SON
IDENTIFIES PAL
OF ROGER TOUHY*Companion of Victim Of Kidnaping Also Witness Today

Chicago, Jan. 24 — (AP)— John Factor's 20-year-old son, Jerome, took the witness stand in the Factor kidnaping trial this morning and identified a picture of the late Willie Sharkey, gunman, as one of the men who kidnaped the elder Factor on July 1.

Al Epstein, Chicago broker who was Factor's companion the night Factor was kidnaped, gave the jury an eye-witness account this morning of how the two were captured.

He was the fifth of the state's witnesses against Roger Touhy, suburban beer runner, who with three aides is charged with seizing Factor and holding him for $70,000 ransom.

Epstein was with Factor and Jerome—the latter a victim of an earlier kidnaping—when the three left the Delta, a roadhouse north of Chicago, in Factor's glittering $6,000 roadster.

Tells of Kidnaping
"Another car pulled alongside ours, and a man reached out the window, with a gun," Epstein told the jury.

"This car pulled across in front of us, cutting us off. A second car then drew alongside. Four men, all with firearms in their hands, got out and came toward us."

"One of the men said, 'Where's Jack?'"

"Factor said 'I'm Jack' the man said 'come on.'"

The two were escorted to one of the kidnapers two cars, both large sedans. After driving a few minutes, Epstein said, one of the kidnapers suggested the two prisoners should be tied, and the kidnapers who had nothing at hand, borrowed their victims' handkerchiefs and blindfolded both Factor and the broker.

Were Not Searched
It also occurred to the kidnapers, Epstein said, that the prisoners had not been searched for firearms. Instead of searching them, however, the kidnapers simply asked Factor and his companion if they were armed, and took their word for it that they were not.

The kidnapers did not know Epstein, the broker said. After learning his name, they told him "we will let you out," and did. He was warned, however, to count 15 before removing his blindfold.

"Factor said 'Tell Rella (Factor's wife) not to do anything until she hear from me,'" Epstein concluded.

On cross-examination defense attorney William Scott Stewart led each of the defendants before the witness stand, turned them around so Epstein could see them from all angles, and asked of each: "Is this one of the men you saw that night?" To each query, Epstein answered, firmly and loudly, "No."

Was Not Certain
Prosecutor Crowley then demanded of Epstein whether he was sure the four defendants were not among those present. Over strenuous objections, Epstein corrected himself to say he could not be certain that they were not present.

Like Epstein, all the state's early witnesses said they would be unable to identify any of the group of gunmen which ambushed their cars. All agreed however, in describing the kidnapers, as in shirt sleeves and heavily armed.

Defense Threat
A defense threat to "blow the lid off" an alleged politico-crime alliance in Chicago today hung over the trial.

It was put there by Stewart who charged in his opening statement yesterday that the case against his clients was part of a plot inspired by the syndicate founded by Al Capone to exterminate its rivals and that its ramifications reached into "government forces, the police department, and the State's Attorney's office."

Asserting that Touhy and his aides were in the beer business prior to repeal of prohibition, the attorney charged that the Capone syndicate attempted without success to assassinate Touhy and "tried every method in the world to force him out of this territory."

When he reached the statement that the syndicate had made in-

'Tomorrow's Train' Ready for Test

Like a glaring, "toothy" prehistoric monster this creation looks, but instead it's the last word in modernity—the train of tomorrow. A long, low profile, its "body" only 9 1/4 inches from the rails, this Union Pacific train, just completed and ready for its test trip, has a top speed of 110 miles an hour.

Byrd's Flagship
Was Blown Loose
From Her Moorings

Aboard Admiral Byrd's Flagship Bay of Whales, Antarctic, Jan. 24—(Via Mackay Radio) —(AP)— An ill wind blew part of the Byrd expedition into the sea today.

Springs up suddenly it drove Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's flagship from her berth along the low shelf of crumpling ice—so that none of those on board could go ashore.

Some took turns at a glass watching the men marooned on shore laboriously towing supplies on the bay ice, the dog teams hurrying loaded sledges to a transfer depot a mile and a half to the southeast.

Of the 20 on shore, three were in the old winter camp at Little America, the others distributed among empty caches four and a half miles south of the edge of the bay ice and the unloading station at its edge.

The turns at the glass were expected to be replaced by real work again soon. The ship was cruising slowly and all indications pointed to the probability of an early mooring.

Mrs. Wm. Gipson of Amboy Is Dead

Mrs. Amanda Gipson of Amboy passed away at her home Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Amboy Methodist church with interment in Prairie Repose cemetery.

Mrs. Amanda Gipson, nee Amanda Leming, was born in Allentown, N. J., and on June 3, 1861 was united in marriage to William Gipson. Ten children were born to this union, six daughters and four sons, nine of whom survive her. She came to Illinois in 1879 and had resided in the vicinity of Amboy since that time. Her husband preceded her in death, May 11, 1921. They resided on a farm until 1907 when they retired, moving to Amboy to make their home. Mrs. Gipson had been a member of the First Methodist church since 1873, uniting with the church at Ocean Grove, N. J.

McCormick-Deering Company
Moving Into Buick Garage
Building Across the Street

An important change in business locations on First street was made public today in the announcement of the removal of the McCormick-Deering Implement Company's warehouses and service station. For several years the company has occupied the Schuler building on First street and this site was recently leased by the state highways department for the consolidation of the engineering department, the state garage and paint shop. Necessary changes are now being made and the building put in readiness for occupancy early next month.

The implement company have completed arrangements to move from their present location to the Schuler building which houses the Dixon Buick Co. sales and service garage at 321-323 First street. Moving operations were started on Monday and are being hurried with all possible haste.

William Schuler and Oscar Johnson of the Buick Company will continue to occupy office space at their present location until about Feb. 15. Mr. Schuler is retiring from active business while his partner plans to take a well deserved vacation. Mr. Johnson, however, has not announced his plans for the immediate future but it is expected that he will continue to be affiliated in the automobile sales in Dixon in which capacity he has had many years of experience during which time he has made countless friends.

PRESIDENT TO ASK FOR MORE
MONEY FOR CWA*Will Ask $850,000,000 To Continue Work
Until May 1

Washington, Jan. 24 —(AP)— President Roosevelt was ready today to ask Congress for $850,000,000 to carry on the Civil Works Administration until May and to provide additional relief throughout the fall.

Out of the $500,000,000 relief fund the President is prepared to use money for continuation of a part of the CWA beyond May 1, if necessary.

However, he asking only the $350,000,000 necessary to continue the CWA until May, confident that a vast majority of the 4,000,000 workers now on the federal payrolls will have been absorbed by that time by private industry and the normal seasonal pick-up on the farms.

Wants Flexible Rule
He wants the $500,000,000 relief fund flexible enough to be available for extended CWA work in the autumn if it is found to be required.

Meanwhile the President and his aides looked over numerous complaints, described as being mostly from political sources about the use of CWA funds in various communities.

Several hundred protests a day are received at the White House and probably as many more at the CWA headquarters, it was said.

The complaints were described as charging in most instances that local agencies are using funds to build up political parties. It was said at the White House that the complaints are about equally divided between Democrats and Republicans.

The President has asked that the protests be investigated so far as possible and he is seeking to get the idea aboard that federal funds must be kept out of politics.

CONCENTRATION ON IMPORTANT
WORK IS URGED*Co. Engineer Awaiting Orders From CWA Officers

That a substantial shift in CWA projects in Dixon would become effective Friday morning, was reported today by Mayor G. C. Dixon following his return from Chicago, where he spent yesterday at the Illinois headquarters in the interest of the local program, but an official ruling had not been received at the offices of Charles Willett, county supervising engineer, at noon today.

The report indicated that the administration headquarters would order a general concentration of the completion of the more important local projects. District and county engineers were to analyze the present program and select the projects which are to be completed. It was expected that a general shift of workers would take place, halting the minor projects and concentrating the working forces on major works. The city, it was indicated, would take advantage of recent gifts, the Reynolds athletic field, Borden park and Page drive, upon which additional forces of workmen would be concentrated for the purpose of completing the work by February 15.

Mayor Dixon today stated that a general belief existed that additional appropriations would be forthcoming so that work already started might be continued until its completion.

Painfully Hurt
by Falling Brick
Ora Holdeman, 508 Logan avenue, narrowly escaped being instantly killed Tuesday morning about 8 o'clock at the Borden condenser. He was removed to his home where he is suffering severe scalp wounds and bruises about the head and body.

He was working in the receiving room at the condenser when loose bricks fell from a wall, striking him on the back of the head, the back and about the body. The fact that he was in a stooping position at the time probably prevented his being instantly killed. An opening had been made in a brick wall to provide for the installation of new equipment, and Mr. Holdeman was working near this place when the loose brick suddenly fell. He was reported to be resting quite comfortably today and will probably be confined to his home for some time. Several stitches were required to close the deep scalp wounds.

St. Paul, Jan. 24 —(AP)—The $200,000 ransom demanded by kidnapers for the release of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, had not been paid up to 12:30 P. M., well authenticated sources close to the family disclosed today.

Chicago, Jan. 24 —(AP)— The search for the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, was believed to have been taken up in Chicago today when a number of Detective Bureau squads were ordered to assist federal Secret Service agents in guarding railroad stations.

They were on watch for two widely known kidnapers, supposedly on their way here from St. Paul.

The men sought were reported to be Verne Sankey, 42, and Gordon Alcorn. They were indicted by a federal grand jury at Denver on March 29, 1933, for the kidnaping of Charles Boettcher, wealthy Denver resident, but never were apprehended.

Although police refused to discuss the case, it was learned that squads under the command of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker were detailed to the LaSalle street, Union, Northwestern and Schiller Park railroad stations with instructions to assist federal agents whom they would meet there.

DR. ALICE NOW FEELS O. K. AND SEEKS LIBERTY*Release Under Bond to be Asked for Alleged Killer

Chicago, Jan. 24 —(AP)— Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, whose heart complications caused a mistrial to be declared Monday in the murder proceedings against her, said today with the exception of a slight headache she felt "all right."

Matron Anna Jacobs reported that the elderly physician, who is awaiting her second trial on a charge of killing her daughter-in-law, Rheta, spent one of her most comfortable nights since entering the county jail nearly two months ago.

The possibility of a spirited legal fight over the question of permitting Dr. Wynekoop's release from jail on bond so she can go to a hospital to recuperate became apparent today.

Informed of an announcement by her lawyers that they would begin a fight next week for her release, Charles S. Dougherty, Assistant State's Attorney said that the prosecution would oppose such a move.

The prosecutor said that bail on a murder charge is permissible only when there is a strong presumption of innocence, adding that such a plea in Dr. Wynekoop's case would be "unconscionable."

The Public Works Administration has allotted $1,500,000 for construction of one-quarter section of an airplane seadrome for test purposes.

Trusts With Policeman Bared
In $100,000 Alienation Suit

MYRTLE SAYS HER LOVE NOTES WERE
"A LOT OF MUSH"*Didn't Have To Lasso
Copper To Get Him,
She Declares

Chicago, Jan. 24 — (AP)— The court bout that Mrs. Susanne Nottingham is staging with Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, former Internal Revenue Collector, over the love of Mrs. Nottingham's policeman husband, Norman E. promised to take a lively turn today as the defense said it would attempt to put him on the stand.

Attorneys for Mrs. Blackledge, in Mrs. Nottingham's $100,000 alienation of affection suit, said they would seek to introduce the policeman as a defense witness on the recent ruling by the United States Supreme Court upsetting the old rule that husbands and wives could not testify against one another.

Judge Irving Weaver, who with the jury of 10 married men and two bachelors, yesterday heard the stories of both men and also the testimony of Nottingham's seven-year-old daughter, said he would listen to arguments today and decide whether or not Nottingham could take the stand.

In her testimony yesterday Mrs. Blackledge admitted having written endearing letters to the policeman, but as for love, she said the notes were a "lot of mush that means nothing when it gets cold."

When asked if she had chased after Nottingham, or if he had been aggressor in what she described as their "genuine friendship," she glanced at the jury and replied:

"Well, I didn't 'lasso' him."

While Mrs. Nottingham was on the stand testifying how her husband's love had cooled when "that other woman" came into his life, the policeman himself was busy elsewhere — a culprit had stolen his overcoat and hat and he was attempting to track him down in the county building.

Nottingham was barred from the stand as a defense witness today.

The ruling, Judge Weaver, followed long argument among counsel. He was expected to testify that Mrs. Blackledge had not deprived Mrs. Nottingham of his affections, because Mrs. Nottingham had not possessed them for some time prior to his meeting Mrs. Blackledge.

His summons to the stand was made possible by a recent ruling by the Supreme Court of the United States which upset the legal rule that husbands cannot testify against wives and vice versa.

He was barred, however, because Judge Weaver believed "there is too much doubt as to this man's competency."

'THREE-FINGER'
JACK WHITE IS OUT OF PICTURE*Gangster "Rubbed Out" at His Home in Oak
Park Last Night*BULLETIN

Chicago, Jan. 24 —(AP)— William (Klondyke) O'Donnell, gang leader of suburban Cicero, today was reported to have been identified from rogues' gallery pictures as one of the two men who visited William J. (Three-Fingered Jack) White, public enemy, a short time before he was slain in his apartment last night.

The identification was said to have been made by Jimmy Kelley, brother of Nancy Kelley White, widow of the slain gangster.

Mrs. White, Kelley and Miss Dinah Anderson, 29, a friend of Mrs. White, said they had left White a hour before he was slain. They said he was sitting with two men who they knew as "Bill" and "Joe."

Kelley identified the picture of O'Donnell as the one who was known as "Bill."

Mrs. White and her brother appeared anxious to assist the police. Miss Anderson, asked to state her name, said: "One name will do as well as another, but I'll stick to Anderson, Sterling, Ill."

Chicago, Jan. 24 —(AP)— Police searching for the slayers of William J. (Three-Fingered Jack) White, public enemy, today ordered the arrest of William (Klondyke) O'Donnell, gang leader of suburban Cicero, and his pal, Joe Chernik.

Fear that White had "squealed" to government men was advanced as the most likely motive for the slaying of the ex-convict in his apartment at suburban Oak Park last night. At the federal building today it was learned that Oliver Kempster, a state highway policeman assigned to the office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, had gone to White's apartment late yesterday to seek information.

Kempster and James (Red) Martin, another federal agent, admitted being at the apartment before the shooting. They were at first seized by police as suspects themselves, until they established their identity. At that time Kempster explained he had merely stopped to leave Mrs. Dinah Anderson, 29, Sterling, Ill., a friend of White's widow, at the apartment.

Under Indictment
White had been indicted with 16 others in connection with the alleged Trucking & Transport Exchange racket, known as the TNT, but although his whereabouts were said to have been known to certain authorities, he had not been placed under arrest.

The slayer of the gangster was known to be a bitter enemy of the Roger Touhy gang, whose leader and three of his cohorts are now on trial for the kidnaping of John Factor, stock market speculator.

Police pointed out that White probably was in a position to give information valuable in the prosecution of either case.

His body, partially unclothed, was found last night after tenants of the building heard a series of rapid shots and saw two men flee from the building and jump into a waiting automobile and drive away.

Wreckage Shows Struggle
That the gangster had put up a desperate struggle was evidenced by the overturned furniture in the well-furnished living room in which his bullet-marked body was found.

Two glass bookcase doors were smashed and from bottles and glasses found on the premises it was evident that White and his visitors had been drinking before he was slain.

The janitor of the building, called to the scene, said he had never seen White before and police sought an H. J. Cerny in whose name the apartment was leased.

In the evidence that a woman, and possibly a child, also shared the apartment with the gangster.

Four Years In Jail

White's history with the police department goes back to 1919 when he was sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary and served a four-year term as a robber, and continues on through the regime of the city's notorious underworld rulers.

In 1926 White was accused of the slaying of Police Officer Edward Plafume of Embury River Forest.

He was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon, but never brought to trial for participation in the $50,000 robbery of the International Revenue Company.

The state twice convicted White of the murder of the policeman, but each time the state Supreme Court reversed the decision, and finally when he was brought to trial for the third time the charges were nolle prossed when the prosecution admitted it had no new evidence.

Appealed Jail Sentence

However, only last May White was convicted on an old charge of carrying a pistol, but his sentence by Judge James Farley to a year in jail and a fine of $300 was appealed.

After the departure of Al Capone to Atlanta federal penitentiary to serve a term for income tax evasion police said White and Murray Humphreys, who then became "public enemy" No. 1, teamed up and formed what came to be known as the Trucking and Transportation Exchange.

The purpose of the "T-T-T" was, authorities said, to obtain a strangle hold on all the city's trucking business by charging a levy on every truck of freight moved over Chicago's streets.

One time it was estimated in underworld circles the outfit was doing a million dollar business a year, but the organization was finally exposed by police and the state's attorney's office and White and Humphreys were forced to beat a hasty retreat.

Since then little had been heard of White, and although he was known to have gained a legion of enemies for himself, police were at a loss to attribute a direct motive for the killing.

White's Wife Appears

Early today two women, one of whom identified herself to police as White's wife, and a man were taken into custody when they drove up to the apartment in an automobile. All denied knowing anything of the killing until informed by the crowd that had gathered in front of the building.

Mrs. White solved the mystery of "H. J. Cerny" when she told the police that it was the name under which White had gone. She gave her own name as Nancy, 22, and said that until her marriage she had been a cabaret entertainer.

Stealing Girl There

The others gave their names as Miss Anderson, Sterling, who said she had been visiting the Whites, and James Kelley, 28, a brother of the widow. Kelley said he was an unemployed stage dancer and comedian and had been living with his sister and her husband recently.

Under questioning of Chief Deputy Coroner Stephen Zolnowski, Bernard O'Donnell, brother of "Klondike" was taken into custody shortly before noon and hurried to the State's Attorney's office. There he was questioned by State's Attorney's police and prosecutors of the TNT racket case.

O'Donnell asserted that the last time he saw White was at Hot Springs, Ark., last March. He said he had no idea who killed him. O'Donnell then was taken to the Oak Park police station for questioning.

Busy Seeking Money

Capt. Dan Gilbert, Chief Investigator for the State's Attorney's office, said that White had been active for months demanding funds from labor leaders for his pending trial in connection with the TNT.

"Our men had been searching for him from the time of the indictment and knew that he was somewhere in the vicinity of the building where he was killed. We knew of his demands of labor leaders and of their resentment."

The inquiry into White's death will be held at 11 A. M. tomorrow.

Lieut. Harry Wilson of the Oak Park police said he believed Mrs. White would do all in her power to aid the police and that he believed Miss Anderson and James Kelley, the widow's brother, would do the same.

All three were taken to the Chicago Bureau of Identification where they failed to identify photographs of known killers.

Kempster told the police he had just happened to "run into" Miss Anderson yesterday afternoon. He said she had given him the address of the White apartment and said she was visiting there.

Miss Anderson gave information that led police to begin a search for two men known to her only as "Bill" and "Joe," as the killers.

Miss Anderson said that when she, Mrs. White and Kelley left the apartment at 9:30 o'clock last night to attend a loop theater White was entertaining two men whom he had introduced as "Bill" and "Joe."

"There was no trouble at that time," she said. "I don't know who the men are or what they do."

Rode With Kempster

The woman said she arrived at the apartment yesterday from Sterling in company with Kempster, said a former sergeant of the State Highway Police, now is connected with the office of Melvin Purvis, chief of the Chicago Bureau of the Federal Department of Investigation.

Police found the marriage license of White and his wife and it showed they were married at Crown Point, Ind., by Justice of the Peace Harvey J. Minas. It was issued August 15, 1933, and among the witnesses to the ceremony was Anthony "Tough Tony" Capozzi, formerly known as a Capone hoodlum and at present the alleged owner with his brother, Frank, of the Cinema club in Cicero.

Had Been on Investigation

Later police seized Kempster and Martin, and after questioning them released both.

The agents said they had returned from Aurora, Ill., where they had come with four Chicago police squads on a government investigation, and had merely stopped at the apartment to leave Miss Anderson.

After prolonged questioning of others held Kolanowski said that in his opinion White was slain by associates of James (Pur) Sammons, now serving a life sentence in the Indiana state penitentiary at Michigan City as an habitual criminal.

Kolanowski said he believed the killing was an act of retaliation because White did not come to the aid of Sammons.

"White and Sammons were known to be associated," he said, "and it also is known that White didn't lift a hand when Sammons got into his trouble in Indiana."

BIGGEST STATE
FARM SOCIETY
IN ANNUAL MEET

I. A. A. Claims 60,000
as Convention is Opened Today

Danville, Ill., Jan. 24—(AP)—The Illinois Agricultural Association, claiming 60,000 members as the largest state farm organization in the country, met here today to draft its campaign for 1934.

President Earl C. Smith announced that advance registrations indicated attendance would be unusually large at the three-day convention.

Monetary policies of the Roosevelt administration occupy a major place on the program of the Farm Bureau organization, which has been an advocate of the "commodity dollar" as a means toward parity prices for agricultural commodities.

Two Major Speakers

Two of the major speakers will be Chester C. Davis, new head of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and Dr. F. A. Pearson, Cornell economist and associate of Dr. George F. Warren, one of President Roosevelt's leading monetary advisers.

In addition to Smith and President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation, others on the program include J. M. Huston, president of the Production Credit Corporation at St. Louis, and C. V. Gregory, editor of Prairie Farmer.

The agricultural association's affiliated companies and organizations, incorporated to serve farmers members at lower rates, occupied the full program today with their annual meetings.

Service Co. Meetings

Eight of the ten service companies and reported satisfactory progress and expansion during 1933. They included three insurance organizations—the Farmers Mutual Reinsurance Company, the Illinois Agricultural Mutual Insurance Company and the County Life Insurance Company—having millions of dollars of business.

Other meetings were held for the Illinois Agricultural Auditing Association; the Illinois Farm Supply Company, which handles petroleum products; the Illinois Farm Bureau Serum Association; the Illinois Agricultural Holding Company, and the Illinois Producers' Creameries, which was reorganized last year and is operating plants at Bloomington, Peoria and Rock Island.

Sessions were not held for the Soybean Marketing Association and the Illinois Grain Corporation.

CONGRESS HEARS
RIGHT OF NEGRO
IN RESTAURANT

Rep. DePriest Angered
at House Drawing
Color Line

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—The lone Negro member of the House—Representative Oscar De Priest, Illinois Republican—served notice on the Democratic majority today of an attempt to force a floor vote as to whether Negroes should be barred from the House restaurant.

"I am going to see to it that Negroes eat there, or we can close it," said the angered De Priest.

Replied Representative Warren, North Carolina Democrat, who heads the committee in charge of the restaurant: "It has never served Negro employees or visitors, nor will it so long as I have anything to do with it."

The squabble started yesterday when De Priest's secretary, Morris Lewis, went to the grill room of the restaurant, accompanied by a Negro friend, and ordered food at the horseshoe counter.

Refuse to Serve Them

A Negro waiter refused to serve him. First the manager and then Representative Warren were called.

Warren said he had given the order. De Priest immediately objected and declared later he would force a House vote on a privileged resolution to gain a decision.

"If the Democrats are going to act that way toward the Negroes," he said, "we might as well have a showdown now. It seems funny to me that a man with money to pay for his food, whether he be Jew, Gentile or Negro should be refused food in a public restaurant."

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—High Navy officials today pictured an American fighting fleet placed "on a business basis," as a result of what they termed "a sincere response by Congress" to the Vinson bill.

On Capitol Hill, Chairman Vinson of the House Naval committee let it be known simultaneously he would move early this afternoon to attach his measure as a rider onto the Navy's $284,000,000 annual appropriations bill.

The bill, if approved, would carry the Navy to full treaty strength by 1939. The President would be authorized to lay down the necessary number of vessels with other appropriations to be made by Congress in the future.

Specific Plans

Navy chiefs named the ships specifically authorized as one aircraft carrier of 15,000 tons, 800 tons of destroyers and 35,000 tons of submarines in addition to 33,000 tons of six inch gun cruisers one 10,000 ton heavy cruiser—all these in addition to the vessels now being built under Recovery Act funds and regular appropriations.

Approximately 20 ships could be laid down in the first year under the Vinson program. These would probably be divided between 14 destroyers and six submarines. The whole program under the measure would call for appropriation of some $380,000,000 or $400,000,000 annually.

Admiral William H. Standley, Chief of Naval Operations, asserted that not only would the measure place the Navy "on business basis," but after establishing the fleet at full treaty strength would "keep it there."

THE RED COATS ARE COMING.

The Kellogg Red Coats are on their way to Dixon. They are going to distribute a very interesting booklet to every housewife in town; this book contains valuable information on meal planning, balanced meals, etc., with many interesting ways of serving All-Bran. Polo Man Sues For Alienation Of His Wife's Affections

The alienation of affections suit of Miles L. Bowers, of near Polo, against George C. Diehl of Whiteside county, will be heard in the Circuit Court at Morrison tomorrow by Judge J. E. Telleen, and is expected to draw a crowd of spectators. Bowers alleges that on July 10, 1933, the defendant called on his wife and remained from 10 P. M. until 4 A. M. and also on July 14 and on divers other occasions while the plaintiff was away from home. On Aug. 29 the defendant is alleged to have driven away with the plaintiff's wife and the latter claims to have caught them on state route 89, eight miles south of Dixon.

BASIS IS SEEN

Officials Pleased by Sincere Response by Congress

BULLETIN

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—The appropriation bill carrying $284,747,000 for the Navy next fiscal year was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

Although the measure appropriates $33,619,334 for ship construction to bring the fleet up to treaty limits it does not provide for the replacement of ships which now are or will be over useful age when the London treaty expires December 31, 1936.

There was no roll call vote on passage of the bill.

Earlier, the House Naval committee had abandoned plans to seek enactment of the Vinson bill as an amendment to the regular supply bill for the Navy Department. The Vinson bill

Johnny and Lupe Decide to Part

Hollywood, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The Examiner said today that Johnny Weissmuller, swimmer-actor, and Lupe Velez, Mexican film actress who were married secretly last October in Las Vegas, Nev., had decided on a separation.

"I guess it's Hollywood," the actress was quoted. "It's no use. Johnny and I, we fight, we fight, we fight. It's fifty-fifty. I don't put the blame on him. I don't put the blame on myself. We just can't get along together."

The couple had given no prior indication that their marriage was approaching difficulties, having been seen in public together constantly.

Found at the ringside of a prize fight last night, the actress said she didn't believe she would "take Johnny back." Weissmuller said nothing.

Tested RECIPES

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
A MENU FOR TEA
Assorted Sandwiches
Candied Grapefruit Peel
Spiced Nuts
Cocoanut Drops
Fruit Cake
Tea
Lemon Quarters
Stuffed Dates

Ham Relish Rolls
16 slices Graham bread
4 tablespoons soft butter
1-2 cup chopped cooked ham
2 tablespoons pickle relish
4 olives, chopped
3 tablespoons salad dressing
Cut off crusts from bread. Mix rest of ingredients and when soft and creamy, spread on bread slices and roll each slip up like small jelly roll. Wrap the rolls in waxed paper and store in damp cloth and store in the ice box until serving time. Use sharp knife and cut each little roll in 4 slices and arrange the "rings" flat side up on a shallow dish.

Candied Grapefruit Peel
8 grapefruit halves
2 quarts cold water
1 tablespoon salt
Sugar
Water

Cut halves of grapefruit in quarters, add water and salt and soak overnight. In morning, drain, cover by 2 inches with water and very slowly bring to boiling point. Drain and repeat and allow to boil slowly for 50 minutes. Drain and with spoon scoop out and discard all pulp and white portions. Using scissors, cut peel into thin strips, measure, and for each 2 cups of peel, use 1 cup water and 2 cups sugar. Boil sugar and water 5 minutes. Add peel and cook slowly until strips are well glazed and very tender. Remove strips, a few at a time, and roll in granulated sugar. Cool and store in metal box.

Spiced Nuts
2 cups shelled nuts
1 egg white, beaten
1-2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cinnamon
Mix egg white with sugar and cinnamon. Add nuts, mixing with fork. When nuts are well coated sprinkle them on shallow pan and bake 40 minutes in very slow oven.

Mrs. O. W. Dynes Has Article Published In Chicago Paper

Mrs. O. W. Dynes, president of the Garden Club of Illinois, which will stage its annual flower show next April at the Navy Pier, Chicago, from the 7th to the 15th, is the authoress of a delightful article which was printed Sunday in the Chicago Herald and Examiner, and which we reproduce for the benefit of our readers. An attractive picture of Mrs. Dynes accompanied the article. It will be of interest not only to the friends of Mrs. Dynes in Dixon and vicinity but to the many flower lovers in our environs. Mrs. Dynes who is a personal friend of Mrs. Chas. R. Walgreen, has many times been a guest at the Walgreen estate, Hazelwood. The article reads as follows:

We all know that the art of gardening can be traced back to the beginning of time. First, probably, as a matter of self-preservation, to provide food. Second, to gratify the inherent love of beauty common to all intelligent human beings.

Looking back across the years to countries or localities having garden clubs and flower shows since the eighteenth century, Illinois would be considered, I suppose, new in this field of activity. However, upon authority, I learn that flower shows in Chicago may be traced back to the days of the Civil War and Illinois does boast of a horticultural society organized more than forty years ago, which was composed of amateur and professional gardeners who cooperated to conduct annual flower shows which usually were staged at the Art Institute and the Coliseum during chrysanthemum time in the Fall of the year.

The late J. P. Vaughan was most active in the organization of this society and its president at the time of his death in March, 1924. Failure of the society to find another individual with the same broad, unselfish vision probably was responsible for the cessation of the old Horticultural Society's activities, and as a society, it has since remained inactive.

Garden Club Organized
The Garden Club of Illinois was organized in March, 1926, with a nucleus of twenty-nine garden clubs and now, at the end of eight years, the club number 142, with a total membership of approximately fifteen thousand and a junior membership, the largest junior membership in the United States. Illinois is the only federated club holding monthly board meetings with round table conferences open to all garden club members.

Although the last three years have proven the worst ever experienced in a horticultural way, the Garden Club of Illinois has weathered the storm and finds itself in a strong, flourishing condition. In some instances larger activities have been undertaken. We have aided in all plans for home betterment, beautification of home surroundings, roadside improvement and plantings. Many of the local clubs have undertaken large projects of this sort as their major civic activity.

Member clubs are urged to sponsor junior garden clubs and the work among the children has spread rapidly. The quality and scope of this work are amazing and it constantly shows great improvement, as evidenced by the junior exhibits at the Chicago Flower Show.

Flowery Beauty Gone
Conservation plays an important part in the program of the Garden Club of Illinois, but as in many other states, our state officials have been so intent on "pulling Illinois out of the mud" that nearly all native beauty was sacrificed to roads. All too late, it has been recognized that Illinois is famous for its wild crabapples (quite as lovely as the cherry trees of Japan) and its native hawthorns. The many thicket groups and hedges of these lovely things will not return in our day, but since garden clubs and other civic-minded bodies have awakened to the tragedy of this roadside slaughter, there is being launched a comprehensive campaign to "put our native landscape back."

The Spring flower show of the Garden Club of Illinois is the major activity of the club year. The eighth annual flower show will be staged again at Navy Pier, April 7 to 15. This is the only major show in the United States to be sponsored and financed entirely by a garden club federation. The women of the club sell the commercial space in the show, the advertising in the program directly, and do all of the office and clerical work defraying all of the expense and donating many months of labor to the cause. Headquarters for the show are maintained in the Palmer House.

Exerts Wide Appeal
What is the great appeal to the public in a flower show? The crowds spring from every walk in life, privileged and under-privileged, rich and poor, each seeking beauty first, information second, and enjoying with pride the accomplishments of others. The soil-starved city apartment dweller lives again his "dream garden" and many memories are recalled by the old-fashioned flowers found blooming so naturally in the garden.

The Chicago flower show is recognized as an educational and civic institution of importance for the Middle West, teaching the use of plants and flowers to all. It is because of this that the large department stores, seedsmen, architectural firms and growers of every form of plant material join in promoting and supporting the project. Competitive exhibits staged by the garden clubs, together with the magnificent display of flowers and plants by the Allied Florists and commercial growers, parks and private estates, transform the hall into a scene of arresting beauty occupying approximately 100,000 square feet of continuous floor space.

ASHTON CHAPTER TO HOLD SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION
Ashton chapter, No. 575, O. E. S., will hold its annual school of instruction Friday with Mrs. Florence S. Hennick, of Aurora, in charge. The afternoon session will begin promptly at 2 P. M. A scramble supper for members and their families will be held at 6:30 o'clock and the evening session will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

"Aida" to Be Sung From Metropolitan

Serafin, Who Will Conduct, Calls Opera To Be Given Saturday His Favorite

Told By Tullio Serafin

VERDI'S "Aida" which I am conducting at the Metropolitan Opera House this Saturday afternoon and which will be broadcast throughout the country is not only my favorite opera but my lucky one—or so I consider it.

It was the first opera I ever conducted, in Ferrara, Italy, years ago, and in a majority of the scores of cities in which I have since appeared it is the opera in which I have made my debut.

At that memorable performance in Ferrara there was one particularly effulgent star that cast a shadow on all the others concerned. It was the leg, or rather the legs, of the contralto who sang the part of Amneris. In those primitive days legs were more of a novelty than they are now and bare legs were unknown in grand opera in Italy. So, when the lady appeared wearing a skirt which was slit high up on either side, and as she walked about, revealed her legs—nude beauty, consider, I ask you, the effect upon an emotional Italian audience!

I have forgotten how the lady sang, yet I remember her success was enormous. But times change. Ten years ago in Naples I was most harshly criticized in the papers because I made the

Helpful Hints For Housewives

WISE CAKE BAKERS STICK EXACTLY TO GOOD RECIPE

Melted chocolate has a tendency to thicken cake batter, but do not, upon seeing this, begin to alter the batter by adding more liquid, as the cake will come out all right when baked. Select a dependable recipe and follow it exactly. Adding a little more flour or liquid to make the cake batter "look right" is the cause of many failures.

RECIPE CALL FOR COFFEE? LEFT-OVER KIND WILL DO

When a recipe calls for coffee, the coffee infusion is meant, and so what's left over in the pot or percolator will do. Chocolate French pastry frosting is improved in flavor if the liquid used is coffee.

MAKE TUMBLERS SPARKLE WITH PINCH OF BORAX

A few pinches of borax in very hot water will give your drinking tumblers a sparkling sheen—and you will hardly have to dry them. In fact, if you turn them upside down to drain for a few minutes you will find your glass-washing a completed chore.

NOVEL PLACE CARDS

Cut out from magazines little illustrations which show certain hobbies of your party guests. They can be used to make novel and amusing place cards.

HERE'S A SOAP-SAVER

Do you want to know what to do with the odd pieces of soap? Dissolve them in enough water to cover. Add a teaspoonful of borax for every pint of the mixture and you will have a good soap jelly.

COOKIES—PLUS IMAGINATION

Imagination helps in making your cookies. Thus, by using bits of raisins, dates, nuts, colored sugars and citrons, many different designs can be made on your cookies for holiday guests. For instance, holly is simulated by thinly cut citron and red cinnamon candy drops.

In making a soufflé add a pinch of soda to beaten egg white. This helps to keep it fluffy and puffy.

CULINARY HINTS

To hasten the baking of potatoes partly boil them first.

Do not cut or break sponge or angel cake until they are thoroughly cool.

Olive oil is good for bruises—if you apply it soon enough it will probably save you from having that battered black and blue look.

A little lemon juice sprinkled over chicken salad greatly improves the flavor. In fact, it is good to use for fruit, fish or meat salads.

W.R.C. Meeting on Monday Was Important and Interesting

The Dixon Woman's Relief Corps met in regular session Monday afternoon with the new president, Mrs. Janna Ware, efficiently presiding.

The usual amount of business being transacted, general orders were read by the secretary, these being from national headquarters and called attention to the great need of child welfare work. Among the communications read, was an invitation from the Department to attend a banquet and reception in honor of the Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, Russell C. Martin, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mae G. Lincoln, National President of the Woman's Relief Corps of Aurora, Ill., to be held in Chicago, at the Hotel Sherman, Feb. 4th.

Mrs. Ware announced that a play would be put on by the Dramatic Club, Feb. 2nd, the title of this play is "Poor Married Man." A small admission will be charged, the proceeds to be used for relief work. It will take place at G. A. R. Hall, with more details to be published later.

Mrs. Ware also named her committee for the coming year, at midweek meeting closed in regular form, to meet again on February 12th.

To Entertain Methodist Ladies Friday

Friday afternoon, the ladies of the M. E. church will be entertained by the social department of the Ladies Aid Society at the church. The regular business meeting will be held at 2 o'clock in the primary room. Promptly at 2:30 a most delightful program, which has been planned by Mrs. W. J. Hintz, will be given in the dining room of the church. Do not fail to come and enjoy the mood of the Dixie entertainers as they carry you back to "De Land of Cotton."

REBEKAH LODGE TO MEET FRIDAY

A program commemorating the birthday of Thomas Wilkey will feature the meeting of Minnie Bell Rebekah lodge Friday evening in I. O. O. F. at 7:30 o'clock. The committee will serve refreshments after the meeting.

BIBLE CLASS TO MEET THURSDAY AFTERNOON

The Woman's Bible Class of the Methodist church Sunday school will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. T. W. Clayton, 322 Peoria avenue.

Mrs. Ware announced that a

Wearing a smile that has often flashed across the footlights of a Follies, Meredith Howard, Broadway actress, and A. Russell Erskine, Jr., member of the South Bend, Ind., family that controls the Studebaker Automobile Manufacturing Company are pictured after their marriage at the Church of the Transfiguration in New York.

Delightful Program Is Arranged for Sunday Afternoon

The Dixon Philharmonic Orchestra is presenting its monthly concert Sunday afternoon, Jan. 28, at the St. Anne's Catholic church, on the north side. Professor Samuelson, the conductor, has arranged another delightful program, which the music lovers of Dixon and the vicinity cannot very well afford to miss.

The program contains many musical gems such as Valse Triste, Serenade, Rosamunde and the ever popular, Blue Danube Waltz. Of equal interest will be the songs rendered by Roy G. Long, baritone; among which are Cavatina from "Faust" and the Kashmiri Song. Miss Naomi Woll, the pianist will present a piano solo, Ballade in G Minor; Miss Woll is a talented young pianist of Dixon, who is a graduate student and has won much distinction for her ability as both a soloist and an accompanist.

The first number on the program Rosamunde, an Overture, by the immortal Franz Schubert, displays his subsequent mastery of instrumental playing and of composition. Following this lively and melodic composition is Valse Triste, a tone-poem by Jean Sibelius, its very beautiful theme is carried throughout the piece by the violins. The next number is Serenade, by Toselli, one of the better known and well liked compositions of his kind.

The first soloist of the afternoon, Roy G. Long, will then present three songs, Friend O Mine, Rolling Down to Rio, and Cavatina from "Faust," Act II.

Following Mr. Long, Miss Naomi Woll will play Ballade in G Minor. The intermission will follow, during which a collection will be taken.

The conductor will appear again and the orchestra will play, two waltzes, by Johannes Brahms.

RUSSIAN RECOGNITION AND EYES ON JAPAN.

When American recognition of Soviet Russia first was announced, the country blinked a couple of times, looked somewhat nervously at the beaming figure of Mr. Litvinoff, meditated with comfort on those big industrial orders Russia might be placing, and allowed that it probably would be all right.

Since then, it gradually has become apparent that a profoundly important maneuver in world politics has been taking place.

To send an ambassador to Moscow because your relations with Tokio are somewhat delicate may look like a roundabout way of doing business. But it is perfectly obvious that the Japanese situation was a sizeable factor in our recognition of Russia, and bit by bit we are beginning to get a glimpse of the real background of the move.

One angle of it is touched on by an editorial in the current issue of Woman's World; and whether or not this magazine has the facts absolutely straight, it at least gives a sample of the kind of thing that was taken into account in Washington when recognition first was discussed.

During and after the war, says the Woman's World editorial, Japan and France reached a secret understanding. Clemenceau feared that the end of the war would find the United States overwhelmingly more powerful than any other nation on earth, and he believed Japan could be useful as a check.

So, says the editorial, he devised an agreement whereby Japan would be permitted unlimited expansion in Asia. Japan would be allowed to seize Manchuria and control China; it also would be allowed to control the Pacific all the way to the California coast.

It was for this reason, continues the editorial, that Clemenceau insisted in giving Japan mandates over so many islands in the Pacific at the Versailles conference.

Now all this is somewhat shocking, to one brought up on the theory that America and France always have been good friends. Just how far the facts are straight may be open to question. The story may be entirely true, partly true, or entirely false.

The point that it does illustrate is that Japan has been emerging in the Far East as a potential enemy of both America and Russia, and that certain European powers have been very happy to see that happen. By resuming relations with Russia, this country has taken an effective step to meet the situation.

Recognition was a move for national security. By sending an ambassador to Russia, the administration sought to lessen a growing tension on the other side of the world.

BACK TO SERFDOM.

Most recent news from Germany gives the American workingman new reason to thank his stars that he lives on this side of the Atlantic and not in the realm of the Nazis.

It would be hard to overemphasize the extent to which the German worker has lost freedom under the new dispensation. The latest development is a law which—effective next May—abolishes labor unions in toto, imposes fines and other penalties on workers who disobey factory rules, gives the employer complete mastery over his employees, and does away entirely with the right of collective bargaining. The German worker, henceforth, is to take what is given him and like it.

To be sure, the state is supposed to look out for his interests. But the ordinary workingman is mindful of the old adage about the way heaven helps those who help themselves.

The German worker is to be completely at the mercy of the men at the top of the heap.

THE OLD CRITERION.

Comptroller General McCarl has blocked—temporarily, at least—the activities of the government's emergency housing corporation, which was to have spent $100,000,000 on slum clearance and low-cost housing projects by ruling that the action is unconstitutional.

It is believed in Washington that the administration will find a way around this obstacle, possibly through passage of new legislation by Congress. Meanwhile, it is interesting to note Mr. McCarl's objection.

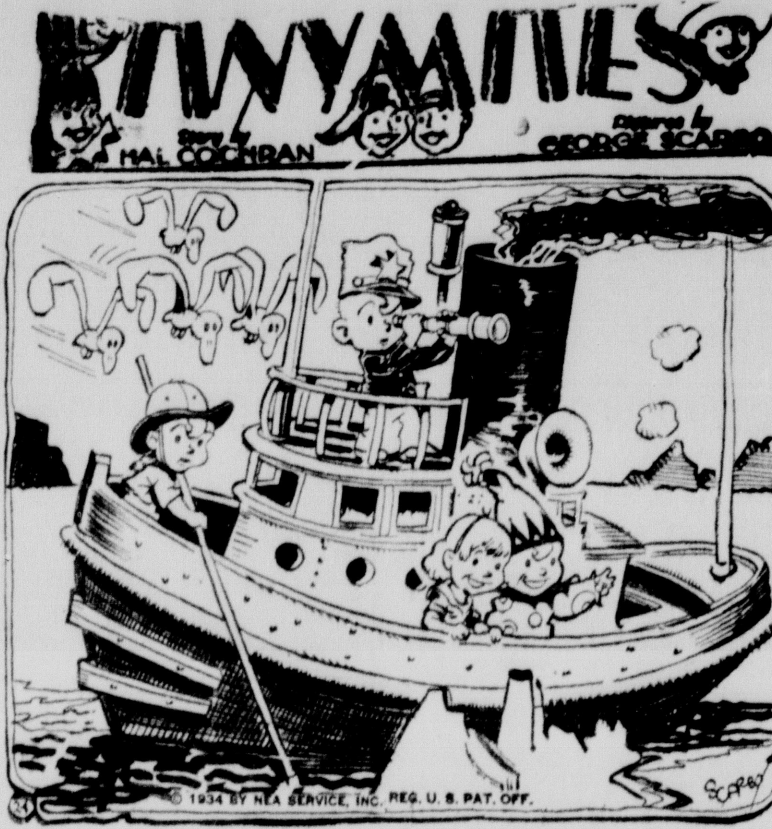

The question involved, he says, is a constitutional one, and the framers of the constitution never contemplated the setting up of such a corporation.

That, no doubt, is perfectly true. Government does many things these days that the framers of the constitution never contemplated. If that criterion is to be applied to all its activities, Washington is going to be an infinitely less busy place in the future than it has been in the past.

An aroused public conscience knows no insurmountable obstacles.—James M. Ogden, president of the National Association of Attorneys-General.

France does not wish an inch of ground belonging to anyone else and never will engage in aggressive war.—Premier Chautemps of France.

We can't learn much about whisky until we smell it. Whisky making is more of an art than a science.—C. F. Byer, chemist of the U. S. Treasury Department.

The captain of the strange boat said, "You are welcome, Tinkles. Come ahead and join me on my little ship. I'm lonesome as can be."

"I've been stuck out here in the ice, alone, and it's been far from nice. I wish that we could find some way to sail right out to sea."

"I guess, though, that I will have to wait till there's a thaw, but gee I hate to waste the time just loafing here. It gets monotonous."

"Why, say," said Cappy "I have a hunch that, with the help of all our bunch, you may be able to get free. I guess its up to us."

"Sure! We will help!" wee Scouty roared. "Have you a long ice hook on board?" "You bet," replied the captain. "What do you propose to do?"

"Just break the ice up, bit by bit. At least we'll have to try at it," said Scouty. "If successful, we can chug your boat right through."

"Say, you are a pretty smart young lad," the captain said. "I will be glad to get my long hook right away. It is in my cabin right now."

Wee Scouty shortly had the hook and to the bunch he shouted, "Look! I am going to do the pushing and I will stand up at the bow."

"And I will help the captain. He can surely find some work for me," said Windy. "You just bet I can," the friendly captain cried.

"Go down and shovel coal, my son. You'll find that it is not much fun, but we need steam. If we are to ever start off on a ride."

Wee Windy did as he was told, and from the smokelack black smoke rolled. Then Scouty took the hook in hand and shoved the ice chunks around.

The engine chugged to beat the band, and Dotty soon cried "This is grand! The little boat is moving, though we don't know where it's bound."

(The fisherman gives the Tinkles a scare in the next story.)

PILLAR OF SALT

By L. L. R.

SPOTS OFF THE TIGER

"The good work has begun and it gains momentum with each succeeding week. Murphy and his kind must, like the noxious weed, be plucked out, root and branch. From the ruins of the political machines we will reconstruct something more nearly conforming to a democratic conception of government."

As we read it again, that statement from Franklin Roosevelt, the young state Senator, who had led a successful fight against "bossism" during his first term in the New York State Legislature in 1911, sounds strangely familiar. We find it again, altered to suit different circumstances, in the same man's first annual message to Congress: "We must make sure," he said on January third, "that as we reconstruct our life there will be no soil in which such weeds can grow again. We have plowed the furrow and planted the good seed; the hard beginning is over. (We must) build on the ruins of the past a new structure designed to meet the present problems of modern civilization."

The twenty-eight year old Senator's first political battle is an interesting story. Chauncey M. Depew's term in the United States Senate was to expire. It seemed certain that the national elections of 1912 would send a Democrat to the White House, and it seemed equally certain that a Democratic Senator from New York would aid the state machine greatly by way of federal patronage. Upon that point even the new insurgent state Senator was in agreement. But when Charles F. Murphy, boss of Tammany Hall, attempted to force the nomination of a hand-picked candidate for the Washington post, there was trouble in the air.

Murphy's choice was "Blue-eyed Billy" Sheehan. Sheehan had worked his way up from Buffalo party leader to the Legislature, and finally he was Lieutenant Governor and National Committeeman. Having left active politics, in 1912 he was practicing law in New York City. The side of Sheehan's business life which most annoyed young Roosevelt was the fact that he was counsel for, and a director of a dozen public utility companies and railroads, including the great traction and lighting firms of the City.

In those days the United States Senators were elected by the Legislature. The Democrats and Republicans met at their respective caucuses, and each group nominated the man or his choice. The two candidates thus chosen were considered by the Legislature as a whole. In this case the Republicans quickly renominated Depew, but the Democrats, thanks to F. D. Roosevelt, were unable for many weeks to agree upon a candidate.

Sheehan became daily more determined to have the nomination, and Roosevelt's mind became constantly more firmly set against Murphy's choice. The Democratic members of the Legislature met daily (at least they had the opportunity of doing so) but each time their efforts to nominate a man failed. The failure was due to the fact that the young insurgent had convinced twenty other members to join with him in staying away from the meetings. Those who attended such a caucus were pledged to vote at the election for any candidate chosen by the party majority. But with a score of the members of the party missing, there was no hope of nominating a man who would later be elected, because enough votes would not be pledged for him.

The fight went on and on. Caustic words were hurled right and left. Roosevelt and his band of insurgents remained unmoved. They met daily at the Roosevelt home in Albany, where the young Senator's wife served lunches and breathed heavy cigar smoke like a good martyr. And it was not until Sheehan's supporters had retreated that the Democratic caucus was able to nominate a man for the office of United States Senator.

"I Made For My Sun Porch..."

(Being The Domestic Secrets of An American Housewife)

By NATALIE ABBOTT

SUN porches are made for fun and frolic and lounging. But even sun porch furniture needs protection against rings from damp glasses and sticky candy. If your friends insist, as mine do, on putting their highball glasses and water glasses down wherever their hands happen to hit, supply them with these little crocheted coasters. A set of six of these, crocheted of knitting and crochet cotton in a tight stitch to catch the moisture, will save any amount of repainting and polishing in days to come. Follow these simple directions.

Materials: Pearl cotton size 5, 3 balls of yellow, or any bolifast color preferred, and 2 balls of white; steel crochet hook No. 5.

Large Mat: With yellow, ch 3, s c in 2nd ch st. Join, ch 1, turn.

2nd rnd: 2 s c in each st (the ch-1 forming 1 of the first 2 s c), always picking up sts on back look of work, join with sl st, ch 1, turn.

3rd rnd: 1 s c in 1st st next to the ch-1. This forms the increasing at that point. * 1 s c in next st, 2 s c in next st, repeat from *, making 18 sts in this rnd. Continue in this way for each rnd, increasing 6 times to a rnd, having increases come at the point of the preceding rnd. Make 7 ribs, (2 rnds forming 1 rib) of yellow, join the white by sl st. Through the st of joining, make 1 ch, turn, and continue as before, making 1 rib of white, 2 ribs of yellow, 1 rib of white, 1 rib of yellow. Fasten off.

Smaller Mats: Work same as for large mat until there are 5 ribs of yellow. Change to white, make 1 rib of white, 1 rib of yellow. Fasten off.

FORD V8 for 1934

THE new Ford V-8 for 1934 is a car you will want to own regardless of price. Many of the features of this new Ford Car can be found only in other cars at far higher cost.

You will find, for instance, a V-8 engine with 12% more horsepower than last year's model—bringing this new car up to 85 horsepower. This V-8 engine, combined with the elimination of excess weight means acceleration unequaled by any other make of American car regardless of price.

Yet this new V-8 is the most economical Ford ever built. Tests show that at 45 miles per hour the new engine gives 20 miles per gallon.

Nor have major improvements been confined to performance. More comfort has been built into this new car.

Springs have been made more flexible.

These springs provide individual transverse cantilever suspension for both front and rear axles. All 4 wheels are given free action. This type of construction is not experimental and has the advantage of unequalled comfort plus the proved safety of a front axle.

You'll find new comfort, too, in the new Ford Clear-Vision Ventilating System. The window is all in one piece. There are no blind spots to obscure vision.

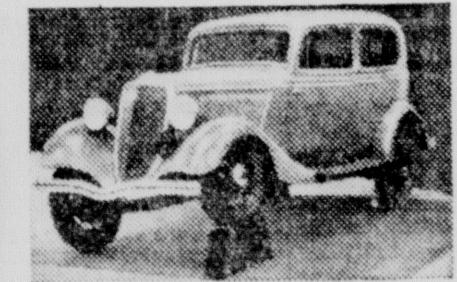

As to safety, we believe that the Ford V-8 is the safest car on the roads. It has a welded all-steel body, remarkably low center of gravity and more braking surface per pound of weight than any other car we know of.

Before you buy any car at any price, it will pay you to see and drive the Ford V-8 for 1934.

NEW FORD RADIO PROGRAM with Fred Waring goes on the air Sunday, February 4th, 7:30 p.m., over Columbia network.

ROSS RISKS HIS PRESTIGE WHEN HE ENTERS RING

Billy Petrolle to be Constant Menace to Champion This Eve

New York, Jan. 23 —(AP)—Barney Ross, speedy champion of the lightweights, risks prestige but no title in a ten-round bout with Billy Petrolle, the battle-scarred scourge of the lightweight and welterweight divisions, at the Coliseum tonight.

Stirred from their lethargy by prospects of a knock-down, drag-out battle between two first-class fighting men, boxing fans rushed for the ticket windows. A virtual sell-out—12,000 seats—was in sight.

Ross' position as a 2 to 1 favorite was due in part at least to the fact that the youngster outpointed Petrolle in Chicago last March, but New York ringers have seen lethal-fisted Billy dispose of too many ring greats or near-greats to understand how any rival can be held at such odds against him.

Remember Eddie Ran. Particularly do they remember the night he fought Eddie Ran, dead-punching Polish welterweight. Ran was warned that he must watch Petrolle's left hand, that the Duluth veteran's south-paw hook was sheer poison. Faithfully Eddie did as he was told. For five rounds, he steered clear of that left, never giving Petrolle a clear shot with it. Suddenly the veteran thudded home a terrific right hand punch to Ran's chin and the Pole went down and out in the sixth round.

Ross, of course, is a more polished, far more clever performer than Ran, but he'll need to watch not only Billy's left but his right as well.

The match was made at 142 pounds, Petrolle's best poundage. When they fought at Chicago, Billy undoubtedly was weakened by the effort he had to make to cut his weight down to 137 pounds. Ross probably won't scale much over 136 1-2 pounds.

The main bout is scheduled for about 9 P. M. CST.

REVIVAL THREE EYE LEAGUE TO BE ATTEMPTED

Plans to Absorb Mississippi Valley Association

Davenport, Ia., Jan. 24 —(AP)—Plans for reviving the Three Eye League, which suspended operations during the 1932 season after more than 30 years, were in the making today.

Nineteen cities in Illinois, Iowa and Indiana were to be represented at a meeting at which the Mississippi Valley League would die and the Three Eye be reorganized. Under proposed plans the league would include Davenport, Ia., Bloomington, Peoria, Springfield, Decatur and Rock Island, in Illinois, and Evansville and Terre Haute, Ind.

Dr. C. R. Logan of Keokuk, Ia., president of the Mississippi Valley league, was to preside and Branch Rickey and Phil Bartle of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Joe E. Carr, promotional director of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, were expected to attend.

$100,000 Handicap to Mark Opening of Los Angeles Track

Los Angeles, Jan. 24 —(AP)—The richest purse known to horse racing, a $100,000 handicap, was promised today by the Los Angeles Turf Club through President Hal Roach for its inaugural running in 1935.

Roach said the race probably would be held in March on the track at Arcadia, recently authorized by the California Horse Racing Commission.

Elwood McReynolds Dixon's clever colored boxer, in his first appearance in the ring for several months, lost a close decision to Aaron Wade in Peoria Monday evening. Fred "Killer" Hess of Woodstock also lost his bout with Gurara of Peoria. Keith Graves of Peoria was given the nod over Julius Denney.

OFF FOR THE SKI JUMP IN WISCONSIN'S NORTH WOODS

The North Woods of Wisconsin, long famed as a summer resort region, has "caught on" this year for Winter Sports. More and more people are traveling to Jack O'Lantern lodge near Eagle River on week-end trips to enjoy the skiing, tobogganing, skating, ski-joring, sleigh-riding and all the variety of Winter Sports that are available in that region.

Special week-end parties go up every Friday on the Winter Sports Special of the Chicago & North Western Railway, returning to Chicago early Monday morning.

Wisconsin is the logical place for middle westerners to play in Winter as well as Summer. It has rolling terrain, ice and plenty of snow. The temperature is cold enough, but not too cold for comfort.

SCHMELING MAY MEET MAX BAER ON WEST COAST

German's Name is on Contract For Bout During April

New York, Jan. 24 —(AP)—A return match between Max Schmeling and Max Baer will be held at Los Angeles in April—if the California heavyweight can be persuaded to sign a contract tendered by Lou Daro, Los Angeles promoter.

Paying a flying visit to New York, Daro stayed just long enough to get Schmeling's name to a contract for a 12-round match with Baer at the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles, then left for Baltimore to confer with Baer and his manager, Anell Hoffman.

Hoffman said at Baltimore he would agree to the match provided Daro was willing to guarantee $75,000. Daro had said he believed the match would gross $250,000. Baer vaulted to the top of the heavyweight contender list when he knocked out Schmeling in ten rounds last June.

Schmeling will begin his comeback campaign against Steve Hamas at Philadelphia, Feb. 13.

GREENS. HOMINY, POT LIQUOR MAY BE TIGER DIET

Manager Mickey Cochrane is Looking Up Recipes

Detroit, Jan. 24 —(AP)—There is joy today in Mickey Cochrane's heart, because from down Arkansas way has come the news that one of the Tigers' choicest bits of pitching apparatus—schoolboy Rowe's right arm—is ready for the coming campaign, and in the schoolboy's own words, is "better than new."

And what did it? The Schoolboy again is authority for the assertion that it was "pot likker, greens, grits, hominy and dog bread." To the healing virtues of these the promising youngster attributes his recovery from an injury that put him on the bench in mid-season last year.

It all came out in a letter to Frank Navin, head of the Detroit club. The letter, addressed to "My dear Mr. Frank J.," was sent from the Schoolboy's home in Eldorado, Ark., and brought a whiff of spring to those who like the Schoolboy, are "hoping to get going."

"I have been following the Doc's instructions right faithful like," the letter read. "It's planting time hereabouts and I work with a hoe like he said. The old wing gave me some misery at the beginning but that was because it was weak."

Labors Brought Hunger But, the Schoolboy goes on, his labors made him hungry, and the diet prescribed by the "Doc" proved slim pickings. He stuck it out through, until one day the Boosters Club of a nearby town asked him to make a speech. As their guest he simply could not refuse the dishes. So, he said.

"First we ate. And Mr. Navin, I tried to remember what Doc said about diet, but them greens, grits, hominy, dog bread and pot likker was too much for me. I lived in, and I made what I hear was a pretty good speech."

"Come the next day and out I go and hoe four acres. And the arm felt good like. The misery was completely gone and the weight was right. So the folks fill me up again with pot likker and greens and I feel like flinging fast balls all day."

And that's why Manager Cochrane is looking up the best recipes for "pot likker." That item, along with greens and grits, may turn up on the Tiger training menu this spring.

LEE CENTER NEWS

By MRS. W. S. FROST Lee Center—The local camp of the M. W. A. sponsored a dancing party in their hall last Wednesday evening which was quite well attended. A Franklin Grove orchestra furnished the music.

The Bradford Community club elected the following officers at the annual meeting last week:

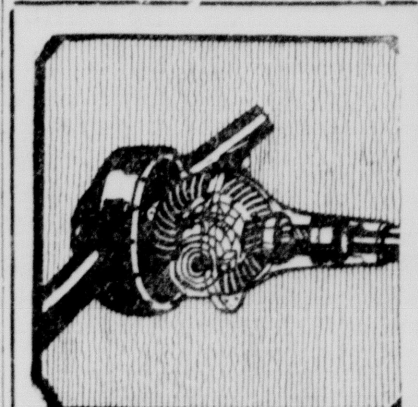

President—Harold Donnelly Vice president—Glenn Hart Secretary—Elsie Larson Treasurer—Raymond Degner Musician—Mrs. Raymond Degner

The election was preceded by a picnic supper which was followed by an interesting program with Chief Deputy Sheriff Ward Miller of Dixon as the speaker. He gave a very interesting talk in which he called attention to modern methods of combating crime and the rapid strides which have been made in recent years in the crime prevention program. In his talk he also recalled some of his experiences as a law enforcing officer of Lee county.

Messrs. and Mesdames C. A. Ullrich, W. J. Leake and B. F. Mason attended the meeting of the Fortnightly bridge club in Amboy last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wise.

Don Zoeller of Franklin Grove was a recent visitor at our high school, the guest of Henry Hannebman Jr.

Animal-Eating Lilies

There is a cave in the British island of Barbados where animal and insect-eating lilies grow. These flowers will close their petals round a walking stick if it is placed close to them.

KINGDOM NOTES

By Mrs. L. Stevens

Kingdom—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gates and Mr. and Mrs. George Gates and Richard were in Paw Paw Friday where they attended the funeral of J. P. Mortimer, uncle of Fred Gates.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Morris from near Leaf River called on relatives recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gates were callers at the Harry Bennett home near Lighthouse Thursday.

Robert Whitney who is attending school in St. Paul was heard in a broadcast over KSTP in a quartet selection of which he is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morris from Woodbine spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Morris. Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Heidenreich and children were also callers from Woodbine Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Dorsch and Mr. Miller from Naperville were Sunday dinner guests at the Elmer Whitney home.

Rev. Thompson pastor of the Brethren church in Dixon is giving an illustrated lecture Thursday evening at the Kingdom church, at 7:30. The lecture is "In His Steps" and large audience is expected.

Rev. Thompson is a very interesting speaker and all who will attend will find it well worth while so come and encourage the speaker, and let's spend the evening together.

Prayer meeting this week will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sanford on Wednesday evening at 7:30. Frank Floto is the leader.

Joseph Stevens is among the sick and his many friends wish for him a speedy recovery.

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSEY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA and MARKO. DEREK BLISS, Lila expects to live in luxury, while Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a settlement.

After returning from a honeymoon in Europe Lila asks the guests to dinner. He showers Gypsy with attentions and Tom is jealous.

Broughton offers her a job on Saturday, cataloging his library and Gypsy accepts without telling Tom. Just as she finishes the work she is taken ill and the doctor tells her she is going to have a baby. Tom insists she must give up her job at the settlement. Gypsy is happy keeping house until Lila comes back from a winter in Florida and asks her to luncheon. Gypsy realizes her clothes are shabby in comparison with Lila's.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER XVIII

THE big car slid up and Lila got out. She was in suave black from head to foot, with accents of white. White gloves, white flowers on her tilted black page-boy's pillbox, frill of white organdy emerging from her jacket. Gypsy, waiting in one corner of the lobby, saw her come in. Even in that well dressed throng of noonday butterflies, Lila stood out. Heads were turned as she went through, consciously unconscious of scrutiny.

Gypsy thought, humorously, "Surely I'm the only woman in the restaurant who's washed her own breakfast dishes." All of these luncheoners were so sleek and assured, they made her feel shabby and small.

Lila was all gracious interest. After a brief and gay recital of her own winter fitting, she had turned the conversation to the Weavers' affairs. What were their plans for the summer? She and Derek were taking a little place at Southampton, just a cottage really—only seven rooms—but it was right on the shore. They'd go down the first of June.

"We have a lease on the apartment," Gypsy said sturdily. "We will be there all summer."

"Not in July, my dear," murmured Lila, scandalized. "You'll perish! You must come down to us for a week or two."

She means to be kind, Gypsy thought, but I wish her tone weren't so patronizing. Aloud she said something light about millions of people remaining in the city all summer and finding it fairly comfortable, too.

Lila seemed more restless than ever, thinner, more feverish. She toyed with her food and smoked cigarette after cigarette. She was forever waving to someone at a distant table, smiling brilliantly at a passerby.

All in all, it was scarcely a satisfactory meal. The food was exquisitely cooked and served, tempting Gypsy's appetite. Napery, silver and china were of the finest. An orchestra played, unseen, and the clack of gay tongues lent an air of festivity. Spring hats, silver foxes, costumes fresh from their Paris boxes, pleased the eye. And still Gypsy was not happy. She had been feeling, these tranquil weeks, that she was a very lucky person. Why, she had everything; a husband who adored her and who was good-looking, intelligent and ambitious; a comfortable little apartment; good friends; a loving family . . . and, crown of all, the promise of a child. Now she experienced the feeling that the scales had moved. Lila's side was in the ascendency. Could it be that she was jealous of Lila? But that was absurd.

THE room suddenly seemed changed. The chattering women had a sinister air. Everything wore an overtone of ugliness. What a world, thought Gypsy! What a topsy-turvy world for a child to be born into! These days, almost anything could send her into a passion of tears and Lila's words had touched a hidden spring of fears in her inmost being. She longed with all her soul to be safe at home in the little haven she and Tom had made.

"Don't you feel well?" She stammered something. She couldn't be ill here—the room swayed and whirled around her and there was a black pit yawning to receive her. The waiter sprang to attention, pouring her a glass of water.

"I'm so sorry." The mist had cleared away and she was seeing everything in its true light again. "It's stupid of me. I felt giddy for a minute."

"Quite all right." But there had been, for the instant, a flash of something like pity and contempt in Lila's glance. "If you would be so stupid as to be having a baby!" that glance had said, plainer than plain!

And then they had parted, Lila turning toward the avenue and

SHE frowned it down. But the thought persisted. Lila's entire background, her smooth, beautifully ordered existence, threw into sharp relief Gypsy's own struggle with steepwinds and laundry hampers and bathroom shelves.

"Seen Marko?" Lila asked idly, sipping her tea.

Gypsy felt herself flushing, the color flowed into her face. She could see herself in a mirror just beyond; a girl with a plain blue hat covering her brown curls.

"Not lately," she said evenly. "I finished some library work I was doing for him . . . but not since then. That's several months ago."

"He was asking for you," Lila contributed. "Only last night. He said you hadn't been well. He was so sweet. You know how Marko is." She looked at Gypsy curiously, as though expecting confidences.

But Gypsy only agreed tepidly. Marko was kind—was generous—but somehow you felt, always, there was some motive other than simple friendliness behind all of this. Perhaps merely because the man liked to be considered a sort of god, kindlier and better than his fellows.

"We saw a lot of him in Palm Beach," Lila said languidly. "He had that woman there. But none of us paid any attention to her."

"What woman?" Gypsy was stung into attention.

"That creature who worked in his office several years ago," said Lila, smiling faintly as if at some amusing memory. "She's dreadful, really, but one accepts her—because of Marko."

"You mean she—they . . . Gypsy stammered, unable to frame the ugly words.

Club Organized

Friday night the patrons of Teal's Corner school met at the school house and organized a Community Club, the meetings to be held the second Friday night of each month. Games were played and refreshments served. The following officers were elected:

President—Ted Wingert. Vice Pres.—Oscar Larson Secretary—Mrs. Alma Fair Treasurer—Blanche Colwell

A committee consisting of Lee Mon, Earnest Fair and Claire Colwell were appointed to arrange a program for the next meeting.

Saturday's School Election There have been several erroneous reports circulated regarding the purposes of the two school elections, which Districts No. 250 and No. 58 will hold this Saturday.

The real object of these elections is to provide a more logical and business like relationship between the two districts. The present situation is undesirable as the high school No. 250 is a renter and cannot improve or make changes in the building as it does not own any of the property; furthermore the grade district No. 58 is unable to make these improvements or accept Federal aid for the high school as it does not operate the said high school—hence the only solution is a joint ownership by both districts of all property.

Any claims that this election is a "tax raising scheme" are absolutely false. Both of our present school boards are extremely conservative and will not sanction any such ideas as they now have the lowest tax rates in northern Illinois and intend to keep them as such. Any improvements which would benefit from joint ownership will come from carefully budgeting the present levy, from any funds now held in surplus, or from a possible outright Federal grant such as the new Congress now has under consideration.

Voters who reside in both districts should see that they vote at both polling places. Polls open from 12 to 7.

Franklin Wins Two From Lee Center

Playing probably the best basketball of the year, the local lads upset their Lee Center rivals in both the heavy and lightweight games at Lee Center last Friday night.

Franklin played a slow breaking overhead offense coupled with a tight defense which stopped the fast passing attack of the Lee Center boys nearly cold by the first half—the count being then 18 to 2. The second half was a closer battle and the reserves went in the game during the fourth quarter and wound the game up with a 27 to 19 victory.

The second team lads put up a good battle and took their game by a 13 to 9 score. Arlin Vaupel was high point man with six field goals.

The home fans are urged to come out and see a real battle this Friday night when Ashton comes to our court for two games.

Civic Music Club Notes

The final practice was held on Tuesday night for the club's last popular concert of the year, which is to be given this Thursday night at the M. E. church. Those who really like orchestra and vocal music are urged to attend as the con-

Tuberculosis of the larynx is another cause of laryngitis and hoarseness. Tuberculosis laryngitis produces a voice that is a painful whisper. Tuberculosis of the larynx is seldom, if ever, a primary condition. Usually the larynx becomes affected subsequent to development of the disease in the lungs.

Still another condition which may cause hoarseness and laryngitis is syphilis. Syphilitic laryngitis produces a raucous hoarseness. Here, too, the involvement is secondary.

At times hoarseness and temporary loss of voice may be due to irritation of the nerves which go to the voice box. This is the condition known as reflex hoarseness. Its appearance in an individual should prompt him to seek medical advice.

An ordinary laryngitis soon disappears. When, however, laryngitis and hoarseness appear in an individual 45 years of age or over, and when the condition persists for two weeks or more, it must be considered as pointing to some possible serious disease.

The most significant of these is cancer. The laryngitis and hoarseness produced by cancer are persistent and progressive, that is, the individual becomes more hoarse the longer the condition is permitted to go untreated.

In cancer of the larynx early diagnosis and prompt treatment offer a good chance for recovery, which chance becomes appreciably diminished the longer the delay in treatment.

HOARSENESS

Hoarseness or laryngitis is most commonly the result of an inflammatory condition affecting the voice box and the vocal cords.

Thus, a cold extending into the larynx will produce laryngitis and with it hoarseness.

Simple laryngitis, the kind that is associated with a head cold, can be treated effectively by voice rest, that is, by refraining from talking, and by the inhalation of warm vapor. The application to the throat of counter-irritants, such as the ordinary liniments and of external heat is also helpful.

TEST No. 14

Arrange thirty safety matches on a table (12 inches from the edge)... tips pointing away from you... Hold the empty box with the lid pushed back one inch in your left hand... Now pick up the matches one by one with the right hand... place them in the box as rapidly as you can... all heads facing the same direction. The average time for this test is 45 seconds. What is your score?

"Mike" Thompson (Camel smoker), famous football referee, can arrange all the matches in 28 2-3 seconds.
